

NEW COMMERCIAL LAWYER IN LANCASTER

Blackhurst Swainson Goodier (Lancaster) has appointed commercial solicitor Malcolm Glynn to help serve the increasing volume of commercial property work in the Lancashire area.

Previously employed in central Manchester as a specialist commercial solicitor, Malcolm Glynn brings a wealth of experience – particularly in the specialist field of commercial property finance work advising a range of UK and multi national companies on diverse commercial deals. Malcolm Glynn looks forward to working with more Lancashire based companies in regard to their commercial property holdings.

Commented Malcolm, “We face a few challenging months ahead of us in the face of this current economic storm and the right advice at the right time can often make a world of difference.

“I enjoy working closely with businesses of all sizes at whatever point in their history - setting up; lease renewals; needing assistance with commercial contracts; financing arrangements; expanding or ultimately selling up - finding the best way to tackle problems and advising clients in a solution-driven, friendly and commercially pragmatic way is how I have always sought to deliver my service.”

Head of the firm’s commercial team Mark Burrow commented ‘Malcolm’s arrival to our firm will be a great boost to the area and to our clients. Specialist commercial lawyers have been hard to recruit in recent years; particularly those with highly specialist experience. Firms in our area who have previously turned to Manchester for high level legal services can now enjoy the convenience of being served from our own offices along with the benefit of our other lawyers who continue to offer the best of commercial legal work to our traditional clients.’

Blackhurst Swainson Goodier is one of the area’s longest established firms of Solicitors and being based in Lancaster, Preston and Garstang provides an ideal base to serve a broad range of client interests.
